Good evening in God,

I have to post a complaint concerning the credibility of the Catholic Church and, outside of catholic canonical rules, also the credibility of the protestant church.

Last week his excellence Cardinal Reinhard Marx, Archbishop of Munich and Freising and President of the German Bishops' Conference got rid of his bishop's cross as well as his protestant colleague Heinrich Bedford-Strohm, regional bishop of the Evangelical-Lutheran Church in Bavaria and president of the Council of the Evangelical Church in Germany. This action also means from my point of view, that they got rid of the symbol of their christian way to the one God.

I will not be able and do not want to be able, to understand this way of official presented clerical timidity. This way is the opposite of the way of rectilinear christianity, postet by Paul (quite politically) to Timothy for God did not give us a spirit of timidity but one of power, love, and self-discipline.

Opportunistic showbusiness can not be the means of traditional representing the church itself as a representative of courageous christians.

My final remark is, that I normally, basing on over 50 years experience, do not trust in texts of the (in Germany very popular) sex&crime-newspaper BILD. But usually (!) photos have a low probability of not telling the truth. Please excuse the "subterranean" quality of the PDF-documentation.

Sincerely

Tilman Kluge
